NETWORKS AND APPS

One of the most convenient features of driving electric is the connectivity offered by different charging networks and apps.

NETWORKS

Electric vehicle charging networks are private companies that offer different options to meet drivers' varying charging needs.

Although most networks operate on a membership basis—you sign up online, provide a credit card, download a mobile app and go charging. ChargePoint, EVgo, and others offer a variety of charging options. ChargePoint is the largest network, with over 100,000 charging stations across the United States. EVgo is the second largest, with over 10,000 charging stations. Other networks include Chargefox, Chargebee, and ChargeLab.
